

B'NAL BRITH DENIES OPEN DOOR CRUSADE

Convention Officer Declares
Immigration Laws Satisfactory to Jews.

An absolute denial of the rumor that the B'nai Brith is to make a fight in Congress, or elsewhere, for the "open door" for the Jewish immigrant was made this morning by Harry Cutler, of Providence, R. I., chairman of the immigration committee of that order.

The rumor grew out of a conference which Mr. Cutler had with the President yesterday afternoon, and a meeting of his committee last night, which was characterized as a "star chamber" session.

Mr. Cutler this morning said that the meeting of his committee was simply for the purpose of organizing. He denied that any movement is on foot to inaugurate an "open door" crusade.

Thinks Laws Sufficient.

"While I believe in liberal immigration regulations," he said, "I think for the present, at least, our immigration laws are sufficient."

"The principal work of our committee is to ameliorate the condition of the Jew after he lands in this country. The only matter the committee considered last night was a resolution providing for the placing of agents by the order at the different ports of immigration in the country. I can't say what resolutions may be adopted by the committee, but no radical recommendations are contemplated."

The delegates to the B'nai Brith convention, which is holding its ninth annual meeting in Washington at the Arlington Hotel, went into session at 10 o'clock this morning. Reports of committees occupied the greater part of the morning session.

Appeals For Red Cross.

Miss Mabel T. Boardman delivered an address before the convention at 11 o'clock on "Co-operation with the Red Cross." She was given an enthusiastic ovation.

Miss Boardman spoke of the national and international boards of the Red Cross and asked the B'nai Brith to co-operate with the work of the society. When she had concluded, the delegates stood and applauded. Judge Josiah Cohen, of Pittsburgh, moved that a vote of thanks be given Miss Boardman. The motion was carried, and President Officer Martin Marks, of Cleveland, formally expressed the appreciation of the convention to Miss Boardman.

Just before the convention adjourned at noon, Charles Rosen, of New Orleans, presented a resolution putting the B'nai Brith on record as approving of the work of the Red Cross, and being desirous to co-operate with the society. The motion carried without discussion. Practically all of the committees went into session between the hour of adjournment, and 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, when the convention re-assembled. Committee reports again largely occupied the consideration of the convention.

Next Meeting Place.

Harry Cutler, of Providence, presented a resolution naming New York as the meeting place for the convention in 1915. The cities which have in bids for the next convention, in addition to Washington, are Denver and San Francisco.

The ladies accompanying the delegates this morning were taken on a sightseeing tour by a committee of the Jewish Women's Council, and the Auxiliary Society of the Temple. They were entertained at Harvey's for luncheon.

Tonight there will be a reception and musical at the Arlington. Between the musical numbers, ten-minute talks will be made by representatives of the various districts which have delegates in attendance at the convention. Exemplifying the life of Morris Ellinger, a former president of the B'nai Brith, as showing the heights of patriotism to which Jewish immigrants attain, Representative Goldfogle, of New York, in an address at the memorial exercises held for Morris Ellinger, Julius Elin, Meyer Thalmeier, and Gustav Tuck last night, asserted that his life was not without a lesson to Congress in the consideration of restrictive immigration measures.

DRAGNET IS SPREAD FOR MORE BROKERS

Three Who Escaped Likely to Be Haled to Court
Soon.

William H. Lillis, of Philadelphia; Joseph Gaskins, of Baltimore, and Robert A. Guy, of New York, are the only alleged bucketshop operators that have not yet been gathered into the dragnet spread by the special investigation division of the Department of Justice under indictments found in the local courts.

Assistant Attorney General A. Bruce Bielaski, in charge of the bucketshop cases, stated this morning these three men were all who were left of the twenty-nine brokers against whom indictments were returned, and that he expected to have no difficulty in getting them into court within the next few days.

The officials of the Attorney General's office do not anticipate difficulty in overcoming the disinclination of the persons indicted to coming to Washington for arraignment at trial. The fact that several of the out-of-town brokers have announced their intention to fight extradition on the ground of lack of jurisdiction has not been overlooked by the Attorney General and his assistants.

Mr. Bielaski said this morning this phase of the situation had been carefully examined before the indictments were drawn. The decision in the Price cotton leak case was regarded as precedent for the arrest and transfer of these men. The same procedure will be followed, it is stated, as was observed in the Hyde-Benson-Diamond land fraud cases.

Should any of the indicted brokers fight removal to the District there will probably be a delay in the hearing that is now set for April 12. The officials of the Attorney General's office would not hazard a guess as to when the hearing would be given in case a postponement was necessary, but they state they intend to bring the hearings to an end as soon as possible.

New York State Woman
Suddenly Dies.

POUGHKEEPSIE, April 5.—Martha A. Gardener, fifty-three, died at Stuyvesant yesterday on receiving a check for $12,000, the purchase price of her farm, on which she had always lived. Her death was caused by heart disease aggravated by the nervousness attending the closing of the deal.

The property was bought by the Whitehead-Sard Company, of this city. Mrs. Gardener at first refused to leave the old place, but yielded when told she might continue to live on the farm for a year or so. When she had signed the deed and taken the check, she looked at it a moment, then her head dropped and her body sank into a chair. She was dead when doctors arrived.

Your Nerves

Your nerves must be fed with pure, rich blood, or there will be trouble. Poorly fed nerves are weak nerves; and weak nerves mean nervousness, neuralgia, headaches, debility. Weak nerves need good food, fresh air, and Ayer's non-alcoholic Sarsaparilla. Make no mistake about this.

Ask your doctor if alcoholic stimulants are not often very disastrous when given to nervous people. He will tell you why. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
